Early Years Last a Lifetime

Early Childhood Trajectory

What we know about children in Ireland

- ❖ 25% of population are children-approx 68,000 births per year
- ❖ The child population of Ireland increased by 13.4% between 2002 and 2011
- ❖ Family profile in Ireland has changed
 - Between 2006 and 2011 there was a 12% increase in the number of families
 - Family size has declined to an average of 1.4 children
 - Almost 20% of private households are lone parent households-the vast majority of lone parents were mothers (87%) and almost 58% were one-child households.
 - 23% of births were to mothers born outside Ireland, compared to 15% in 2004

Universal Child Health Programmes

- ❖ The delivery of child health programmes varies from country to country both in term of content and provider.

- ❖ The key components of child health programmes internationally are:
 1. Screening
 2. Child Health Reviews/surveillance
 3. Immunisations

National Healthy Childhood Programme

- ❖ The provision of the Irish universal child health services is enshrined in various laws passed between 1907 and 2004 , supported by policies and underpinned by strategies
- ❖ Service is free to all children
- ❖ In Ireland our model is currently based on Best Health for Children/Best Health for Children Revisited 2005
- ❖ 2014-2016 BHFC reviewed and updated, framework in draft

The Nurture Programme – Infant Health & Wellbeing

- ❖ The Programme has six key components;
 - Knowledge and Communications
 - Antenatal to postnatal
 - Health & Wellbeing Promotion and Improvement
 - Infant Mental Health and Supporting Parents
 - Standardised Health Records for Parents and Professionals
 - Training and Resources
- ❖ Currently developing a detailed implementation plan, with key deliverables, building on existing good practice.

Interventions

❖ Based on the premise that:

- Parent – child relationship cannot happen in isolation- parenting requires support:
 - parents may be isolated - family units are smaller; removed from extended families with little support network.
- We empower parents as the primary educators during the critical early years of a child’s development
- Health and wellbeing of parents influences health and wellbeing of child
- Other inter-related contexts (family relationships, community, environments) influence and impact on the child’s life
- Interventions will be universal (but the need for targeted interventions will be identified)
- Staff delivering service need appropriate training, support and resources

Practical things we will see over the next 2 -3 years

- Development of a new parenting and child health website
- Provision of information and advice to people planning a pregnancy
- Development of a new Healthy Pregnancy book and online content, adding to the existing Caring for your Baby and Child books and website
- Development of standards for antenatal classes and resources to support delivery
- Provision of universal access to the Child Safety Awareness Programme to guard against accidental deaths and unintentional injuries to babies and infants
- Training for practitioners to identify when a parent needs additional support, advice or information and access to effective referral pathways to specialist services when needed
- Promotion of Infant Mental Health, covering topics like bonding with baby, parent-child communications and supporting baby's early learning and development
- Provide additional supports to mothers to breastfeed whenever possible

Impact of the Nurture Programme

- ❖ Enable the transformation of the child health service – this is a quality improvement programme
- ❖ Improved child health and wellbeing outcomes
- ❖ Maximise our communications and interactions with parents
- ❖ Every parent will be confident that they are receiving an evidence-based service
- ❖ Harness the passion of the clinical teams
 - Many clinical leaders have shown that they are ready for the challenge through their participation on the implementation teams
- ❖ Improve staff morale through engagement, training and support
- ❖ Embed and sustain the changes using an implementation science approach

“The foundations for virtually every aspect of human development – physical, intellectual and emotional – are laid in early childhood.

What happens during these early years (starting in the womb) has lifelong effects on many aspects of health and well-being – from obesity, heart disease and mental health to educational achievement and economic status.”
